between 1983 and 2001 and its appearance recalls the architectural style of the Tang Dynasty.

11:00 Drive to Terra Cotta Warriors Museum approx. 50 km 1 hour

12:00 Lunch on the way or near the Terra Cotta Warriors Museum

13:30 Today's highlight is to visit the Terra-cotta Warriors' Museum. The high point of a trip to Xian comes when you stand at the edge of Emperor Qin Shihuang's vast funeral and gaze at the life like faces of his terra-cotta army. It was discovered in 1974 beneath a grassy mound about 20 miles (32 km) outside Xian. This tomb, remarkably, is not the emperor's actual resting place but a satellite tomb. The expense of excavating Qin ' s vault-said to be part of a vast under ground city crisscrossed by canals of mercury-has delayed the project indefinitely. You can tour the Terra-cotta Warrior reproduction factory.

At present, there are already 149 burial pits, 196 burial tombs have been discovered, including the Bronze Chariots pit, the Rare Birds pits, the Barns pits in small and large scales, the Stone Armor pit, the Warriors and Horses pits and other sacrificial pits. All those together build a massive treasure house. On March 4th 1961, the State Council declared Emperor Qinshihuang's mausoleum a major historical and culture sites protected at the national level, one of the first sited in the country. The mausoleum including the pits of Terra-cotta Warriors and Horses was listed as one of the UNESCO World Cultural Heritage Site.

After visit, transfer to your hotel in Xian mosque holds several prayer services each day. The bazaar at the entrance of Mosque is quite interesting for the visitors.

The Muslim Quarter is the largest of the old city's neighbourhoods. It's a confusing array of narrow alleys that are wonderful to wander in, get lost, and stumble upon surprising discoveries. Muslim Quarter houses a large number of important Christian institutions. The Muslim quarter begins at the northern city wall, goes south to the northern and western walls of the Temple Mount, to Hashalsholet Street, where the Jewish Quarter begins. To the West, it runs to Beit Chabad Street, which runs between it and the Christian Quarter.

11:30 Departure, drive to Big Goose Pagoda, approx. 9 km 30 min
